

Professional ministry families need to experience a significant degree of support to maintain spiritual and emotional vitality. Southeastern California Conference offers anonymous counseling service to provide care for pastor and office employees and their families.

How the Program Works

1. All pastors, teachers and office employees of Southeastern California Conference, his/her spouse and immediate family members are eligible to receive six hours of professional counseling anonymously from the counselors listed on these pages.
2. The employee and/or family member will initiate the appointment with the counselor and at each session will make a co-payment of $20.00 directly to the counselor. One of the coupons issued with this packet must also be presented to the counselor at each visit along with picture identification. The counselor will bill the remaining cost to the conference using the coupons and a number issued by counselor, thus preserving the anonymity of the client.
3. If a counselor charges a fee for missed appointments without prior notification, the full amount should be paid by the employee or family member.

The anonymous counseling program is not the same as an insurance program. Only the counselors listed here have contracted to provide their services for a substantially discounted rate. Do not consult with counselors not listed here unless you arrange to pay for it yourself or go through your medical plan. There may be an unusual circumstance in which other counselors not listed may be needed, but they must be approved first. Questions may be directed to the Human Resources Department office of Southeastern California Conference. Callers may remain anonymous.

Please be advised that the most current list of counselors that work with this program will be available on the HR Website at secchr.adventistfaith.org
